N-Proposal

THE British and American representatives in the three power Geneva conference on the banning of nuclear tests have put forward a new proposal. It may be mistainly be misrepresented.

It is not in any way put forward as a substitute for the comprehensive banning of all nuclear tests under an effective system of inspection and control. That remains the purpose of British and American policy; and the objective of the Geneva negotiations.

But the conference has run into difficulties, partly political, partly technical, which were not foreseen when it opened. And they are of a kind which indicates that a lot more work will be needed before there can be agreement on an effective system of inspection which would cover all possible nuclear tests; so as to give reasonable assurance that an agreement to stop them is being fully observed. That such a system is acceptable as a feature of such an agreement is, according to certain Russian statements, common ground between the Western Powers and the Soviet Union.

The British and American Governments now offer, in brief, that there should be an immediate agreement to stop the tests which are at present capable of being controlled; with, at the same time, agree-ment to press forward with all possible speed with the work that still has to be done to provide a system of control for all tests. The new plan would, in fact, be an instal-ment, not a substitute.

FITHE meeting of technical and acientific experts last summer devised and recommended a system of control applicable to the then known types of tesis; chiefly those in the ntmosphere and underwater.

But in the interval between the sion of tests at the end of October, there had been further developments. Two things had been established.

First, that it was more difficult than had been thought to identify underground tests as such without, mobile inspection teams.

Secondly, that nuclear explosions 30 miles from the earth's surface cannot be located and identified by any method so for agreed.

The first presents the political difficulty. For, so far, the Russians have declined to agree to any extension of the inspection machinery beyond 'that proposed by the experts. Indeed, in some respects, they wish to restrict it.

Among the most important of these restrictions is the Soviet delegation's insistence on a comprehensive right to veto decisions in the Control Commission, including the despatch of teams to inspect events which could be suspected of being nuclear explosions.

CO, because of these Russian D-objections, we are faced by the fact that effective control to ensure that there are no underground tests is at the moment impossible.

The second presents the technical difficulties. We are faced by the fact that, unless and until the scientists have caught up with the problem, effective control to ensure that there pro no "outer-space" tests, is at the moment, equally impracticable.

The British o and American Covernments hold the view that it would be quite wrong to aign an agreement stopping tests which did not in fact provide sufficient control to glvo everyone a reasonable essurance that the agreement was being dully observed. They are not asking the Russians to accept more than they would scoop themselves. What Aban is to be done? Are we to postpone the benning of an effective control system applicable to all possible tosts are in surely rightly - soying

In case she shoved her finger back into the pipe, gas company officials, engineers, road workers, Boy Scouts, Girl Guides, caravan campers, mounted police, welders, divers, leundresses, litter wardens, pipe cleaners, pipe setters, mechanics, overseers, and spokesmen stood by in readiness.

Making musical history

MEMBER of a jazz band A has beaten his drum for 100 hours and 13 minutes without stopping, and "claims the world record." He is welcome to it, but a music-laving public will now expect the entire band to follow suit. The trouble with music today is that it doesn't ga an long enough. In almost every home there is someone who awaits eagerly the longplaying record of that "marathon rat-tat-tat" (I quoto Ozzlo Botto, drummer of the Swingaroo Yachting Orpheans).

Naked Shakespeare

THE growing criticism of the L queer clubs which present naked shows will probably lead to the claim that all this is "a new art-form." To prove this, we shall have a production of "Hamlet" without clothes, to appeal to intelligent patrons.

INCREASED TURNOVER

Meeting Electric Company, will be held on Thursday, September 9,

The following are extracts from the circulated statement by Sir Leelle Camage, M.C. chairmon, for the year ended March 31, 1989;—

In my review last year expressed the hope that we should achieve some improvement in profits in the 1958-89 financial year. This hope seemed far from realisation when the board reviewed the figures for the first nine months' trading and decided the interim The industrials more than dividend. In point of fact, however, the profits for the week. Other sections notted last three months of the year small gains but rails lagged be- I surpassed our expectations. As hind and falled to make up a result the profits on actual their 5.27 point loss of the trading account, before charging previous week. Utilities added depreciation, etc., amounted to £9,407,000, a slight increase on The market fell on Monday, last year's figure of £9,320,000.

We have decided to recoml mend a final dividend of 7 per cent., which with the interim dividend paid in April; will make a total of 10 per cent., the same as the previous year.

A REAL ACHIEVEMENT

Under the conditions which Several individual lasues moved prevoited last year it was a real achievement to have increased our turnover by over £3,000,000 to an all-time record of £108,-000,000. More important still, we start the year with a satisfactory order book of £133.-000,000, considerably higher then last year. Outstanding among new work is an atomic energy plant in Japan.

It was also a notable achievement on our part to have increased our exports over a period in which total British exports showed some decline; this was accomplished despite fierce competition which forced down profit margins. At home the recession in industry continued to deepen until the late autumn, when a change of Government policy was announced—a change which I had hoped would have taken place some months earlier. The results of that change in policy. so far as our Company is concerned, were felt more immediately in the domestic equipment and radio divisions.

FACTORS IN THE OUTLOOK.

You will, I think, expect me 4.10 4500 of 4.05 from the June 30 close. Sales after these two lean years for the week totalled 14,785,280 through which we have passed to give you my views as regards the future. With economic and political conditions at home and overseas constantly changing, it is impossible to promise or to guarantee-I can only tell you frankly what I think and hope that I shall be proved correct.

I expect that the increased demand for electrical consumer goods will continue though perhaps at a somewhat lower level, while the revival in demand for many of our other products will gain momentum as the year progresses-hence the current year's prospects should, for these reasons alone, promise improvement.

If I were to weigh up the good against the bad, I would say that the outlook for the Company for 1959-60 can be viewed as improving. However, the Company's management is not content merely to wait upon events, many of which pro beyond our control. We have taken a number of steps internal -. ly calculated to improve the Company's efficiency and profitcarning capacity.

We have continued the reorganisation of the Company's management. Our widespread general products has been split general manager responsible for both production and sales; the new arrangement will add to the efficiency of both manufacturing and distribution. In the engineering group, we have reorganized the functions of the senior staff on a divisional near months relatively stendy government stockpile for long basis, so as to bring about staple cotton is now more than greater individual. control, 800,000 bales, and some or all of quicker decisions, and better

The suicide was carefully premeditated and before leading to his death from the highest vantage point in Hongkong, the roof verendah of the Gloucester Building, the unfortunate man wrote a farewell message to his wife, Edith, a former nurse in Hongkong Government Medical Service, who left Hongkong on June 13 and has not yet arrived home.

The note said: "Edith -Please forgive me. I want to be cremated and have my ashes sent to you-Lowis." He was

MIR. — Your periodic suggestions for the adoption of open-necked shirts as the sensible summer attire for men have apparently not met with the favour of your Hongkongite. In Shameen (Conton), where the heat is great and the humidity higher than in Hongkong, a few of the residents including the managers of a few foreign firms go about their business in white duck or drill trousers and white linen or silk. shirts with the front collar button unfastened.

When long sleeves that are not rolled up are worn with these shirts, in general this mode of attire has a nest appearance and probably because they so obviously afford comfort and freedom of movement to the wearer is tolerated in the heat of today. It would seem however, that this (fortunately small) minerity are exceeding the bounds of propriety when they go to the pictures in the cool of the evening thus attired, especially when, as is often the casethey are in the company of ladies. Criticism has been expressed in various quarters at the display of what the faddists seem to consider a new vogue.

Many residents will hear with deep regret of the death of Mr C. W. F. Booker, manager of Bishop and Lacey Ltd Exchange Building, which occurred suddenly at the Gloucester Building in the early hours of yesterday morning. He came from Manchester in 1931 and at one time was employed by John Manners & Co Ltd.
